

Chooi Ling, Lim
BSc Biomedical Science (Hons), PhD (Immunobiology)

Chooi Ling obtained her BSc Biomedical Science (Hons) and PhD (Immunobiology) at the University Putra Malaysia. A recipient of the National Science Fellowship Scholarship, she worked at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine, New York (USA) during her postgraduate study. She has published in several local and international journals and presented in more than 10 international conferences, receiving best oral presenter awards in a select few. She has supervised more than 35 undergraduate and postgraduate research students to date and secured 3 national external grants as principal investigator. She is also the secretary of the Malaysian Biomedical Science Association (MyBiomed), organising committee member of several international Biomedical and Medical Education conferences, and is active in mentoring, facilitation, teaching, and academic administrative duties at her university. She is currently an Associate Professor and Head of the Applied Biomedical Science and Biotechnology division at the International Medical University, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.