

Wei Wang

wangwei402@hotmail.com

Prof. Dr. Wei Wang is Yangtze River Scholar, Furong Distinguished Professor in Hunan Province, doctoral supervisor, director of TCM and Ethnomedicine Innovation & Development International Laboratory, dean of School of Pharmacy, Hunan University of Chinese Medicine. He also is the Visiting professor of Karachi University, Shaanxi University of Chinese Medicine, Southwest Minzu University, and consultant of Liuzhou municipal government. He and his group focus on research of the material basis of TCM in Hunan Province, the new method of screening the activity of TCM based on specific target, and the research on the targeted synergistic effect of active components of TCM.

Dr. Wei Wang is the principal investigator of over 30 national, provincial and international cooperation scientific research projects, and has developed more than 10 standards about national, industry and enterprise. He has successively published more than 300 papers, obtained 13 authorized patents and won 7 provincial scientific progress awards.

He serves as executive editor of Current Traditional Medicine, chief editor of Current Chinese Science (natural product section), and associate editor of Heliyon (Biochemistry, Molecular and Cell Biology).